Degustationsnotizen

Using a simple cold press, the essential oils used to flavour the vodka are gently pressed from the peels of sweet, but not quite ripe, oranges. The entire operation is not unlike squeezing an orange or lemon peel between your fingers, breaking open the pores and letting the tartly flavoured microscopic droplets of essential oil burst free. The oranges are all grown in Italy, primarily Sicily. Clear and crystalline with a clean and genuine aroma graced with a gentle hint of orange. It goes into the mouth sweet, soft and well-balanced, a prelude to a medium body with an elegant and silky quality graced with an echo of orange at the end.
